Song Story

This song began with a SINGLE F# minor chord.

This sounds silly, I know, but musicians might notice that my 'favorite key' is E minor; there's not a single note that won't fit right into that key... Em6, Em7, Em9, Emb5 -- I love them all. So one day when I was sitting at the piano, I commented to God that I needed some variety in the music to reflect His Creativity.

Since Em is all white keys, I started hunting for cool chords with black keys. Hence, F#m chord riffs throughout this melody.

The concept of the song itself came from hearing in the same month Creflo Dollar's and Joyce Meyer's intriguing comparisons of garden work with working at growing love within a marriage and growing love for God.

One of the song topics is TIME:

If you won't spend time growing your relationship with your special someone or with your God, the relationship shall wilt.
